Response amplitude and condition preference can belong to different molecules